Seventeen students arrested at the 'pits'

By Angela Cornacchioli
Comment staff

Seventeen students were arrested by Bridgewater Police for trespassing on the land adjacent to the Shea/Durgin dorms Thursday night.

According to the prosecutor, Sgt. Everett Bresciani, a group of students "were congregating, drinking and having a bonfire."

Laurence Spector, one of the owners of the land, had gone down to the land asking students to leave. Most of the students ignored the warning.

At about 10 p.m. five Bridgewater police cruisers arrived at the scene. One car drove in the path causing most students to flee towards the dorms only to be met by officers heading into the woods making arrests.

The 17 students arrested were held on 15 dollars cash bail. Friday morning the students' cases were heard at the Brockton District Court where they were charged with trespassing.

Students admitted to trespassing and were found not guilty by the judge. The case will be continued for 30 days at which time they will have no records. They were each fined 25 dollars for court fees.

The area, better known by students as "the pits" and "the path," is owned by Spector and Ursula Garfield. Six years ago they bought the 20 acres of land which their home is on.

According to Garfield this has not been the first time that they have had to ask students to leave. Within the past four years they

Bridgewater to go 'cold turkey'

By Bryon Hayes
Comment staff

The week of October 16 through 21, in the eyes of many hopeful members of the college, will run differently from any other week this year. Students, faculty and members of the administration will take part in the week long event in honor of the nationwide National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week.

This is the second year that the College has offered this program to all aspects of the campus. The program will begin on October 12 and end on October 21.

This event, which is being sponsored, in Bridgewater, by the Alcohol Task Force, will run under the heading "Cold Turkey Week." According to Pamela Kenny, the program's director, there will be numerous localized events in the residence halls, as well as "a pledge to give up drinking for the entire week;

Sunday through Friday."

This, as Kenny said, is part of the effort "to promote Campus-wide awareness" of the problems of drinking, and that students can have a good time while being sober.

There will be a sign up for "Cold Turkey Week" at the Shea-Durgin Residence Halls on October 12, and at the Great Hill Apartments the next day. Any other student interested can sign up all week long at the Campus Center Information Booth.

When a student signs up to pledge an "alcohol free week," they will receive a free pin, and their name will automatically be entered into a raffle. The prize being featured will be "turkey sandwiches with all the fixings."

On Wednesday, October 12, there will be an ice cream social with film at Shea-Durgin starting at 8:00 p.m. This event is sponsored by Students Against Drunk Driving.

New dorms are right on schedule

Three hundred twenty-nine new residents

By David Flannery
Comment staff

After having begun construction in June, the Massachusetts State College Building Authority (MSCBA) has come a long way in their construction of the new dormitory building at the lower end of the Great Hill. According to the Director of Housing, Mela Dutka, the progress that they are making is both on schedule and very good.

A major factor contributing to the rapid construction has been the good weather conditions which have allowed the work-crews to progress at a rate of "approximately one floor every two weeks." Since progress is going so well, the new dorm building is tentatively scheduled to be completed by next August, with students moving in next summer.

The building itself will be four stories high, with the first floor being a combination of suite rooms, recreational areas, and a general public area. The housing office will also be moving to the new building.

On the outside, a combination of grass and trees, along with

Yearbooks delayed until November?

Editor Pettit looks forward to his fourth term

By Ed Ward
Comment staff

The 1987-1988 Yearbooks have not been published yet and Yearbook Editor Ron Pettit isn't exactly sure when they will be in the hands of students.

Pettit states, "We're still in the proof stage, so we don't know exactly when we're getting the books. We may get them at the end of October. We may get them at the beginning of November. We're not exactly sure."

He claims that the reason for the delay, which is not as great as experienced with last year's books, is that he and his staff missed their deadlines. "Each time we miss a deadline," Pettit admits, "the books get delayed."

Pettit explains that production of the Yearbook is a long process involving many deadlines. Each year the Yearbook staff prepares the individual pages and then sends in a portion of them at a time to an outside publisher. Once a portion is sent it is put together into a 16 page signature essentially a small booklet. When a signature is completed the company sends two sets of proofs back to the Yearbook office to be examined for errors. After the correction stages are completed, the signatures are bound together to form the hardbound yearbook. The 87-88 book is still in the proof stage.

The publishing company through which Pettit is having the books printed is Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. This is the same company which printed the troubled 1986-1987 yearbook.

Last year Pettit complained that Taylor was performing less than satisfactory service. He had to return the book they printed because of numerous defects. But according to Pettit he has straightened out all the problems he encountered with Taylor last year and is planning on working with Taylor on this coming year's book even though he still has yet to go through the state contract bid process.

Pettit speaks highly of the new book. "I think in the 88, we refined what we did in the 87. 87 had all the major changes," he states. These major changes involved, among other things, full color photographs and advanced layout techniques.

The 1988-1989 book, which he have had problems with students partying on their land. "The past two years the land has turned into a dump. When we first moved here it was a beautiful piece of property, now I won't even let my kids go out there."

Students have complained that they didn't see any 'No Trespassing' signs on the land. Several signs have been posted over the years and according to Sgt. Bresciani, "if people tear the signs down it's not the owner's fault. People are responsible to know if the land is private or not."

In the residence hall signs have also been posted by the college to warn students.
Garfield feels that they got their message across this time. The only question left is how long will students remember this episode before they decide to party at the pits again.

Hanover Protest spills over on Burrill

By Joe Sherman
Contributor

Last Tuesday, at 4:00, striking teachers from Hanover demonstrated in front of the Burrill Avenue Academic Building. The subject of this protest was Dr. Robert Fox, a part-time professor at Bridgewater State College, whose classes meet in that the Burrill Avenue Building. Fox is also the Superintendent of the Hanover Public School System.
The teachers, who have since returned to work, were upset by the fact that Fox was teaching at BSC and not focusing his attention on negotiating their contracts.

The teachers' strike, which ended Monday, had been going on for two weeks. Apparently, when it seemed that the teachers were getting nowhere with their strike, they found out that Fox was teaching at the college, part-time.
Fox is an instructor of school finance for the Continuing Education Program.
The teachers feel that it is Fox's responsibility as the superintendent to see to their needs, which they felt included a raise in salary.

As required by state law, the Campus Police were on the scene to ensure a peaceful demonstration.
When asked to comment about the teacher's demonstration, David Wilson of the Office of Public Affairs said, "I feel that the teachers did this only to embarrass Fox and to show their displeasure with him teaching at Bridgewater."

Voter Registration

On Tuesday, October 4, and Wednesday, October 5, a voter registration drive was held to allow Bridgewater students to be able to vote in the November Presidential Election.
According to Paula Ellis, the representative of MassPIRG to the college and the director of this event, over 180 have been registered so far. The group is hoping for a total of 200 by the end of their drive.
Students who did not register during this drive, but wish to vote may register by contacting the Elections Commission in Bridgewater.
The event, which was sponsored by MassPIRG and SGA, is the second year such an event was held. It is hoped that this event will become an annual practice.

Landsberger Files Complaint

Congressman Curtis Landsberger has officially submitted a complaint to the Student Court, concerning the former Student Government Association's Treasurer Sharon Cignetti.
The complaint, which was turned in earlier this week, stated that Landsberger requested an investigation of Cignetti's actions while holding the treasurer's position.
He believed that she "abused the privileges and responsibilities of her office through bias against certain Recognized Student Organizations (RSO)." He later said that this involved Cignetti's alleged delaying of checks to clubs, once the monies were allocated.
Landsberger, in his complaint, stated that through these biases and personal motive actions, he does not believe "Cignetti is fit or entitled to hold a position on the SGA."
Landsberger said that he can back up these allegations with members from certain RSO's, and is prepared to do so.
There has not been a date set to determine when and if the Student Court will hear this case.

SGA Announces Dates for Elections

Elections Director Tobi Krasnow has announced dates for the Final Elections, in which candidates will run to determine who will gain Congressional and other positions. These dates will be Wednesday, October 12 and Thursday, October 13. Students will be able to vote at the poll which will be located in front of the bookstore. The poll will be open from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. each day.

Mystery Photo Answer

The mystery photo, which appeared in last week's issue, was a photograph of the sign in front of Pope Residence Hall. The sign was the one which welcomed the public to Bridgewater State College.

Campus Security Questionnaire Form

Some concerned students and College Administrators have been meeting to review the feasibility of a Campus Student Security Assistance Program. Below are some questions that the group would like to get more information about before developing the final proposal for a program. We would appreciate it if you would take the time to fill out the survey below and return it to the Office of Student Services, the Comment,

Please circle the appropriate answer(s):

- Is there a need for a student security Assistance Program?
  - Yes
  - No (if 'no,' stop here)
- Would you use the Walking Security/Escort Service if it was made available to you?
  - Yes
  - No
- If so, should the program consist of:
  - A walking security program as a visible deterrent.
  - An escort program from location to location on the campus.
  - A combination of both.
- Which evenings would be best for the program to operate?
  - Sunday
  - Monday-Thursday
  - Thursday-Saturday
  - All week
- What hours would be best for the program to operate?
  - 6 p.m. to 12 a.m.
  - 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.
  - 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.
  - 9 p.m. to 12 a.m.
  - 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.
- If it were possible, would you support SGA funding the BAT campus Transit System on Saturday and Sunday evenings?
  - Yes
  - No
- If you have any further comments, suggestions, please write them here.

Please return this survey to the designated locations by Wednesday, October 12, at 12:00 noon.

possible park benches, is what Dutka hopes will create a "park-like" atmosphere.

The new dorms are going to house 392 students in the form of two bedroom suites, with each bedroom holding two students. It is anticipated that the building will be occupied by upper-classmen and that it will be co-ed, although no finalizations have yet been made.

As for dining, students will have to walk to one of the other dining halls, either at Sheadurgin or the Flynn Dining Commons at Tillinghast Hall.

Out of the 392 students who will live in the new dorms, only 40 will be new and additional students. The other 250 students will come from a reduction in the number of students at the existing dormitories where any congested conditions might exist.

Because of this, there will be no increase number of students in the classrooms, and no additional parking areas will be necessary. As Dutka puts it, "we are not increasing the size of the institution."

With the opening of the new dormitory suites only a year away, Dutka is hoping that the result will be a pleasant "community feeling," since that is the goal for which the architects and those planning the project have been aiming.

and his staff have just started to work on, will be Pettit's fourth yearbook here at BSC as Yearbook Editor. He became Editor as a freshman in 1985. Because the Yearbook is an SGA project rather than a club, Pettit's editorial position is appointed rather than elected. (All other clubs and organizations elect their own officers) SGA President Marcia Medeiros is expected to reappoint him in the near future.

Pettit is proud of his accomplishments over the past three years, but is apparently looking forward to something newer and even more challenging in the next book. He is stressing information gathering to his new staff. "We're looking for input from the college community. It's not just the Ron Pettit Yearbook," he states. "I don't want this one to be another look at BSC from Ron Pettit's perspective."

Pettit fondly refers to his current staff as "a small but dedicated group of people." But he is always looking for help and encourages anyone interested in the Yearbook to stop by the office next to the Bookstore

How safe do you feel?

It's late- after 1:30 a.m. While walking across campus, heading back to the dorm, you notice a group of people walking towards you. How safe do you feel?

Arriving at the dorm, you notice a shattered window and a broken door. How secure do you feel?

These are two questions which students of Bridgewater State College may want to ask themselves. During the month of September, there was an increasing amount of vandalism across the campus, and a decreasing amount of security patrolling the grounds.

For instance, the first weekend students returned to the campus, numerous cars had their tires slashed in the Kelly Gym parking lot. The gym also has had a pair of cracked windows and one door knocked off its hinges.

The residence halls are also having their share of damages. From shattered fire doors to emptied fire extinguishers and false fire alarms to broken glass bottles, damage is continuing to be reported.

And the list goes on.

But where is the campus' security? It seems that these people are not doing their job. This is because there is, for all intents and purposes, no security staff.

Last year, there were security patrols who walked across the campus. This year, however, their numbers are diminished. Residence hall security has decreased, with fewer people guarding the entrances to the dorms.

But, security had better increase their numbers quickly. In light of the recent damages to the campus, it appears that these problems will get worse. Since there is little security, vandals know that they can get away with such acts.

Resident hall security is a problem, for this is where most of the damage occurs. There are not enough people to successfully curtail the destructive attitudes of some drunken students.

The current staffs in the residence halls are nearing, or have passed, the point of being overworked. They are being relied on too heavily to carry the weight of a bigger staff, which is needed.

There are those students who state that they do not want more security in the residence halls, and complain about the current 'strictness' of the security teams. The one oversight these narrow-minded students are missing is that they will be paying for the damages their friends commit; the money will come out of everyone's wallet.

The students need to see these patrols in order to gain a sense that there are people on the campus who will not tolerate these immature and destructive behaviors and attitudes. Once they make their presence known, vandals may think twice about committing potentially harmful and dangerous acts.

But until a stronger sense of security is organized, the problems will continue on their current course.

The overall point is that the security force needs to organize itself effectively before a serious problem or injury results. They need to find students who will be willing to put in the hours demanded and have the capabilities to handle problematic situations.

This needs to be done quickly before any more damage is done. This needs to be done while Bridgewater State College still has a campus worth salvaging.

Didn't we already vote?

CONTENDERE

By John R. Burns, III
Comment staff

I was rather hoping that I would be able to address some more positive subjects this year, but, apparently, I'm not going to get that opportunity.

Frankly, I thought that the MassPIRG issue was closed at the end of last year. Some people, though, seem to be experiencing severe memory loss.

Is it my imagination, or did a student referendum take place here last semester? A referendum which Mass- "we're so concerned with students' rights"- PIRG fought against from day one. A referendum in which we, the students, stated by a nearly 3-1 margin (559-205) that we did not want to fund a PIRG chapter based on this campus.

Unfortunately, some people couldn't take the hint. Scott Faria's letter to the Editor last week (9/29) was a truly ingenious little propaganda piece. Luckily for us, we students are not nearly so stupid as he would have us believe we are.

To begin with, I'd love to know where he got his definition of "fascism." It certainly doesn't match the one in any dictionary I've been able to find. Webster's New Universal Unabridged Dictionary defines it thus:

"a system of government characterized by a rigid one-party dictatorship, forcible suppression of the opposition (unions, other, especially leftist, parties, minority groups, etc.), the retention of private ownership of the means of production under centralized governmental control, cont. on p. 7

Important issues

To the Editor:

The Thursday, September 29 issue of the Comment touched lightly on some very important issues facing Americans as we prepare to choose a new President of the United State on November 8.

After watching the presidential debate on Sunday, September 25, I became more uncomfortable with the Republican party and their candidate, George Bush. As expected, Bush gaffed throughout the debate, but even more seriously than many people may be aware of. The inarticulate Vice President made an obviously inaccurate reference to his "Presidential" inauguration eight years ago, claimed that there is "nothing wrong" with being a "card-carrying member of the ACLU" (after weeks of bashing Dukakis' involvement in it), confused already-phased-out weapons systems with those the Reagan administration still supports, and perhaps worst of all, the Vice President whined that "Seven administrations have dealt with Noriega," when in fact, Noriega was just learning to walk seven administrations ago.

George Bush blew his first major decision before the primaries when he chose the inexperienced senator from Indiana, J. Danforth Quayle, as his running mate. Unfortunately, Quayle's other inabilities and incompetencies were clouded by the media when they raked him over the coals regarding his enrollment in the National Guard. Several other flaws in the Quayle record deserve more scrutiny.

Sure, Dukakis has his problems. The mere mention of his name in New Braintree causes outrage. Pro-life activists hate his guts. But Dukakis stands on his own two feet as he takes blow after blow from various groups. Dukakis, as cold as many people may think he is, has been defining all along what a Dukakis White House would mean to the average American. He wants to institute a nationwide health care system so that all Americans will be covered in the event of illness.

He believes that no one should be denied a college education just because their parents or spouses can't afford it. He is committed to the American dream of home ownership at affordable prices. He realizes we are wasting millions on high-tech weaponry we'll probably never use, and certainly can't afford.

What has George Bush envisioned for the nation? He rarely emerges from Reagan's shadow to tell us. It seems he is too pre-occupied with Duke-bashing to outline anything specific. After watching his T.V. ad criticizing Dukakis' prison furlough program, I couldn't help but think, "Fine George, effective negative campaigning, but I want to know what you've accomplished, not what your opponent hasn't." A strong candidate should take pride in stressing his own abilities and accomplishments in order to rally national support and prove competence.

Between now and November 8, we must remember that in the event of the untimely death of a President, the Vice President must take office. Voters should take into consideration the experience, background, competence, and overall qualifications of Dan Quayle and Lloyd Bentsen, the Vice Presidential contenders, before casting their vote.

Brendan Hallisey

Didn't we already have a vote?

belligerent nationalism and racism, glorification of war, etc...first instituted in Italy in 1922."

Next, I like the way MassPIRG stresses that they have "chapters at 30 colleges across Massachusetts." Let's not ignore the fact, though, that there are 124 colleges in the Commonwealth.

As long as we're on the subject of disproportionate statistics, there is the small matter of the "petition signed by more than 400 people." Last time I checked my math, 400 signatures is but 7.7% of the campus's 5200 student population. Sorry PIRG, but you're 42.31% short of a majority.

My, isn't this interesting?

Moving right along - PIRG seems to be relying heavily on the vote of the Freshman class. Their reasoning for this is that, "they didn't get to vote in the spring." This is true but, on the other hand, in May there were a good number of graduating Seniors who did vote. Now-graduates that wouldn't get to vote this time. Now-graduates who had seen MassPIRG's parasite-like existence on this campus for four years. Seniors who felt that they, and future classes would have been better off without MassPIRG. Freshmen, all PIRG has shown you is the treats that they dangle in front of our noses while they reach for our wallets. Your numbers are an important part of PIRG's recipe, but don't be taken in by the gingerbread house, because we'll all end up in the soup.

The students spoke less than six months ago, and the verdict was that MassPIRG should not be financially supported by the student body of this campus. There is no reason to give them a retrial, just because they think they've stacked the jury in their favor this time.

Even as a former member, it is rare that I have been able to compliment the SGA Congress, as a group, on their actions, but on this matter, they were definitely working on the side, and in the interests, of the students that elected them.

Ring! Ring! Who's there?

OMNIBUS

By Bryon Hayes
Comment staff

All I wanted to do was place a phone call; that's it. No big deal, right?

Not on this campus.

While trying to call the Comment office several times on different weekends, I was given three standard answers, "there's nobody answering the phone there," (knowing that there was someone there), "it's busy," and "I can't connect you because I don't know how to do that."

Similar results occurred when I tried to call the switchboard after 5:00 p.m. to connect with outside line. The phone would ring and ring and ring, but still without an answer.

Mentioning these answers to other friends and acquaintances, I was told they had received the same responses. They, too, had tried with no such luck.

And who is in charge of this switchboard service after 5:00 p.m. and on weekends?

Yes, that's right: Campus Police.

Now, is it my mistaken, misguided way of expecting how this service should be run, or shouldn't the people who control the switchboard be able to run it?

Is "I can't connect you because I don't know how to do it" an acceptable excuse? I doubt it. They should know how. After all, it is part of their job.

The other question I have is that why does no one pick up the phone when calling the switchboard after regular hours? There is supposed to be someone manning the phone lines until 11:00 p.m. So far, the phones are ringing.

Not only is this an inconvenience to those who must live on campus and contact office buildings, but to those students who live off campus. If there was ever an emergency, when a person calling into the campus had to reach an office on campus, one could wonder how fast these "operators" would learn to connect calls.

If these operators truly do not know how to connect inter-campus calls, don't you think it is time these people learned? How difficult can it be to press a few buttons and transfer a call? If recent results are any indication, the answer is 'extremely difficult.'

The answers which I and many others have received proves this answer. It appears that we are becoming nuisances; disturbances to the Campus Police crew's nightly routine. For that, I suppose we should be sorry. But remember, the campus does not, like other 'businesses,' shut down after 5:00 p.m. Therefore, we are not.

There are those, however, who have been polite and helpful in connecting my and other people's calls. To those very, very few people, I thank and congratulate you. To the others, I suggest you learn, and learn fast. The quote, "those who can not do- teach" seems fitting; except that you people have never taught.

Campus Police: the phone is still ringing...

MassPIRG issue is closed

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter in last week's Comment in which it was implied that the Congressmen who voted against the MassPIRG question are fascists. There are two basic points on which Mr. Faria's letter was based; both of which are unfounded.

First, apparently Mr. Faria knows little about representative democracy and the definition of a republic. A republic is a government in which power resides in a body of citizens entitled to vote and is exercised by elected officers and representatives responsible to them.

Speaking for myself, as one of the Congressmen who voted against the motion, I did so because I thought last year's referendum was conclusive and the issue was closed. But my reason, or the other Congressmen's reasons are not the issue.

The point is, that as an elected representative of the students of BSC, I voted according to my conscience and beliefs.

When I was elected by the students, I was empowered by them to represent them, and vote on their behalf. I have done so. If at any time the students believe I no longer represent their views, then they will not reelect me. This is the foundation of representative democracy. I, as I stated before, can only vote according to my conscience. That, as I see it, is my responsibility. I deeply resent the implication that I am a fascist. This unfounded and ignorant slur only serves to reveal Mr. Faria's obvious lack of knowledge.

Secondly, Mr. Faria bases his implication on the "fact" that the MassPIRG motion was defeated after a petition was presented with approximately 400 signatures in its supports. Mr. Faria obviously forgot about the results of the referendum last semester in which MassPIRG lost 559 against to 205 in favor. Does this not represent the will of the students?

Does Mr. Faria suggest that a referendum be held every semester? A referendum cannot be held every time someone is disappointed because their side of an issue loses. That is not what a republic is all about. It would be chaos if this type of procedure was followed. The issue would never be resolved.

The bottom line is that MassPIRG lost last semester in a referendum and their supporters don't like it. Well, they may not like it, but the issue is closed - sealed by the votes of students last semester. And I for one, am not going to vote to reopen it.

Who is the Michael Dukakis?

To the Editor:

In response to Jim Senyszyn's letter in the September 29th edition of The Comment, in which Mr. Senyszyn asked the question of who is Dan Quayle, I propose this question; who is Mike Dukakis?

Mike Dukakis is an arrogant elitist who thinks that he is smarter than the American public and that he has the answers to all of this country's problems.

Governor Dukakis feels that increased spending for welfare, requiring all employers to provide health care for their employees, signing a bill that increased auto insurance rates is beneficial to the average citizen.

Although the liberals criticize George Bush about LTC Oliver North and Sen. Dan Quayle, are we so quick to forget former Bridgewater State College President Indelicato, who was Dukakis' top educational adviser, now serving a prison sentence for forgery and selling land that belonged to the college. Let us also not forget another Dukakis appointee, Chancellor Franklin Jenifer, who proposed the current tuition increase for state colleges.

Dukakis will not admit that he is a liberal, in spite of the fact that he has the typical platform. He is in favor of gun control, opposes the death penalty for first-degree murderers, is in favor of giving them weekend furloughs, and is weak on defense.

On his campaign, Dukakis speaks of inheriting a "fiscal mess" from the Reagan Administration, while he couldn't balance the budget in his own state. It seems that Michael Dukakis has duped the American people as he has done in Massachusetts, with a campaign that is long on talk and short on substance.

Perhaps Mr. Senyszyn was a little too quick to criticize Dan Quayle and attack the Republicans, when he should have realized who the other candidate was.

Play the Stock Market game and win

By Marci Hahn
 Comment staff

Starting November first, college students across the nation will have the chance to play the stock market without the worry of going bankrupt, by playing the First Annual AT&T Collegiate Investment Challenge. This challenge is based on Wall Street Games, a year old educational game that actually re-creates the stock market. Over 10,000 students have already signed up to play, and Tim DeMello, founder of Wall Street Games, expects almost 20,000 to sign up by the registration deadline. The deadline is October 21, 1988. The registration fee is $49.95, a relatively small figure compared to the $200,000 in prizes AT&T will be giving away.

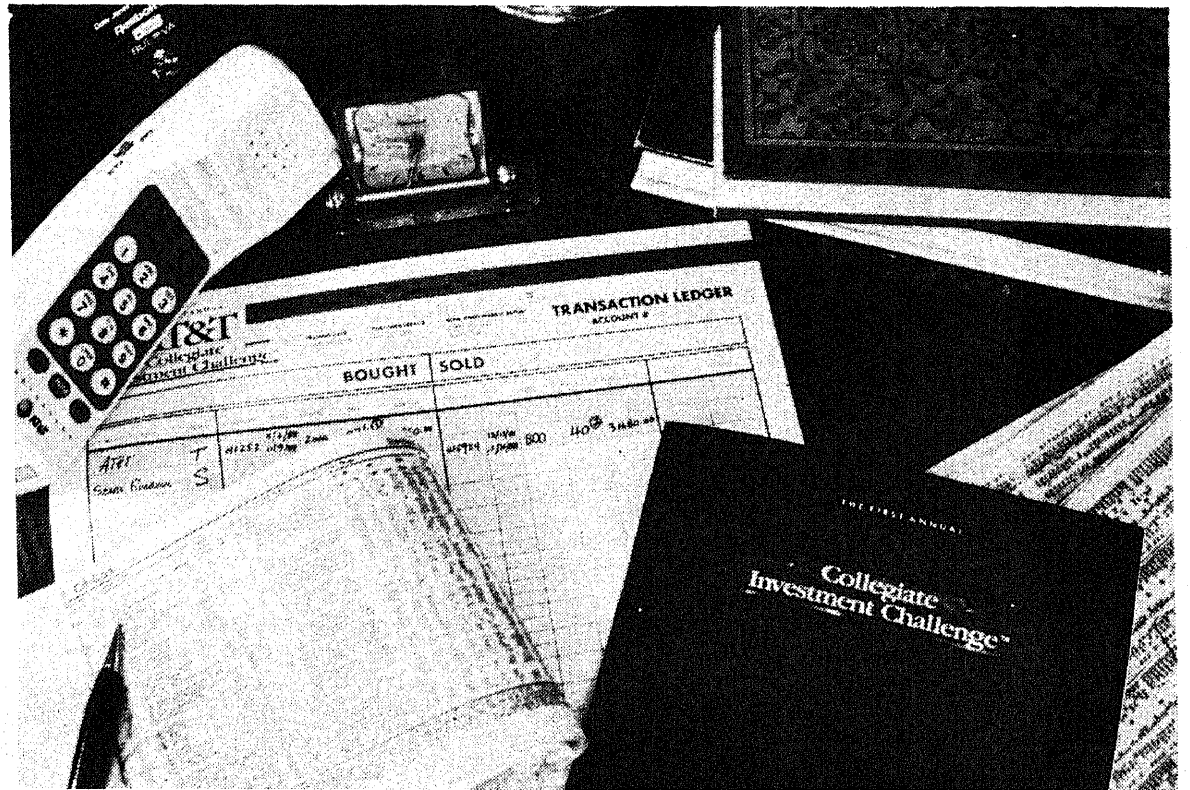

When a player signs up, he or she will receive an imaginary brokerage account of $50,000; a copy of Standard and Poor's Stock Guide; and an informational booklet with some helpful hints, for the first time trader. The game will begin when the stock market opens November 1, 1988 and end on February 28, 1989 when the market closes. By buying and selling shares, students will try to build up their stock portfolios. A toll free number has been set up for the student stockbrokers for making their transactions through the "brokers" of Wall Street Games.

This game is very realistic, it simulates the stock market by using up to the minute information and prices via satellite, and all trading is done during actual market hours. Each month, students will receive a personal account statement and a list of current standings, so they can see how they are competing against other students. Various prizes will be awarded to the top 100 players of each month.

When the game ends, the ten students with the highest stock portfolio will receive $61,500 in cash prizes, with $25,000 going to the top player. The top ten winners and their guests will be flown to New York City for a special awards dinner, a Broadway play, a tour of the New York Stock Exchange, and of AT&T's Bell Laboratories and Network Control Center in New Jersey. Then the top players and their guests will be flown to the Bahamas for a week's vacation.

The colleges also benefit from the game. Any school with more than fifty players will receive prizes. The ten schools with the highest stock portfolio average will win free access to an electronic news and stock quotation service.

College students who register for the first annual AT&T Collegiate Investment Challenge will receive a Standard and Poor's Stock Guide and a ledger for recording their transactions.

DeMello, 29, is a former stockbroker from Boston, he developed Wall Street Games because some people are hesitant to play the stock market, and the game gives them a working knowledge of how the market operates.

"Underlying the competition and the prizes is the educational value," DeMello said. "We think whether students finish the challenge with a million dollars or with a thousand dollars, they'll have learned a lot about the financial market. And they'll have had fun."

Comedians come to BSC

Ed Regine lies down during his club soda act.

By Marci Hahn
 Comment staff

Club Soda, sponsored by Program Campus Committee, hosted three comedians in the Campus Center Ballroom last Wednesday evening at 8:30. The show was a sold out success.

First up was C.K. Lewis. He made jokes about his sisters—one sister who is a yuppie and the other who is fuppie, a fat ugly pig. He shared his experiences of getting caught speeding, growing up with sisters, and learning the codes of women. He also brought attention to his red hair, which was a curse from his parents.

The second comedian Walli Collins had the audience laughing with his discussion about dating and marriage. He mentioned how a woman tries to impress a man, on the first date, by ordering as little as possible in a restaurant. For example, the lady would order a cruton. On the second date, the woman would pull her seat up to the salad bar for an appetizer. The date gets worse.

The last comedian, who has been a regular for the Program Committee's Club Soda, was Ed Regine. He sang a rap song that was entitled, "An Ode to my Nose." He complained about going to the beach and being mistaken for a shark. Jokes ranged from the topics of the Olympics, Presidential race, and being Italian.

Amnesty International: become part of the progress

By Anna Langenfeld and
 Kevin Richards
 Contributors

Students are forming an Amnesty International (AI) chapter here at Bridgewater State College. In their attempt to spread the word, the questions most frequently asked are: "what is Amnesty International?" and "why should I be interested?"

AI is a worldwide network of people, who work for the release of prisoners of conscience, fair trials, political prisoners, and an end to torture and death penalties. AI aims its work towards helping the political prisoner. It is important to understand what a political prisoner is.

Throughout the world there are individuals who are persecuted, imprisoned, tortured, and executed because of their beliefs, religion, or ethnic background which contrast to those views of the governing authorities. AI seeks to motivate people to speak out against these violations of human rights. It seeks to focus its work on the individual prisoners and not the political structure that imprisoned them.

AI was founded in 1961, and has intervened on behalf of thousands of political prisoners in its 25 plus years of service. For this work, AI received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1977. Recognition of the work of AI has promoted the principles of international and individual responsibility for the protection of human rights.

The members of AI, write letters taking on the responsibility of protecting human rights. AI members write letters to the people who can influence the improvement of treatment or the release of the prisoner. With this tool, AI can bring hope to the victims of political persecution.

This was stated by a released prisoner of conscience from the Dominican Republic "When the first two hundred letters came, the guards gave me back my clothes. Then the next two hundred letters came, and the director came to see me. When the next pile of letters arrived, the director got in touch with his superior. The letters kept coming; three thousand of them. The President was informed. The letters still kept arriving, and the President called the prison and told them to let me go."

In a time when it can be overwhelming to listen to the news, one is left with the feeling that there is so much misfortune going on in the world that one can do nothing about it. Amnesty International provides a way to make a difference. AI gives their members a personal way of making a difference in the fight for human rights. Join Amnesty International. The club meets every Monday at 2:00 p.m. in room 206 of the science building. If you can not attend the meetings, look for informational displays by the bookstore.

Ensemble Theatre

By Peter Ashworth
Contributor

Remember Elvis whether he is dead or alive or the music of Fabian, Chuch Berry, Connie Francis, the Everly Brothers, and Bill Hailey and the Comets? All this musical style and more comes together in the Ensemble Theatre's production of Grease, the 50's Rock and Roll Musical, which is scheduled for the end of October. Dr. Stephen Levine of the Theatre Arts department directs this romance which takes place in the fifties. Sally Anne Ward and Todd Poudrier are the main actors of the musical along with a large cast of students from the college.

Levine has directed several shows here at Bridgewater, including A Streetcar Named Desire, Equus, and his last musical Chicago. He had two reasons for doing Grease. "I know there is a lot of talent out there," Levine said, "I wanted to put them on stage." Ninety-seven people came to auditions, "...and many talented people were not cast..I've never seen so much talent." Fifty-two people were cast in a show that originally required only sixteen people.

Second, Levine knew the popularity of Grease, the second longest running musical on Broadway. He said, "There are more intellectually challenging shows, but this is just plain fun, a good time, and good music; so far, I've had fun doing it."

Grease is a basic boy meets girl story with the fifties lifestyle and setting. The production involves the Burger Palace Boys, the Pink Ladies, and the student body at Rydell High. It laughs at the "greaser" mentality of the day. The class rebel and the class madonna get together, but are plagued by the 'tough' cliques. Its music is the music of the fifties with songs like "We Go Together", "Shakin' at the High School Hop", "All Choked Up", and "Rock and Roll Party Queen."

Anyone who grew up watching Happy Days or Sha-Na-Na will love Grease. It will be at the Campus Center Auditorium on October 28 & 29 and November 3, 4 & 5 at 8 p.m. Tickets go on sale soon. Come and have some fun with Ensemble Theatre.

Sunday October 2, the Bridgewater Association for Intramurals, Recreation and Sport (B.A.I.R.S.) went on a canoe trip at Massosoit State Park in Taunton, which is just one of the several trips the organization sponsors.

The club sponsors the annual road race for Homecoming.

In late October, there will be a ski swap. This is when a ski company comes to Bridgewater State College to sell ski equipment at "good prices." There will be Ski International cards available which enables the ultimate skier incredible benefits to members. There may be a ski wear fashion display to show skiers what is hot and what is not on the slopes.

In February, for skiers, there will be a ski trip. Anyone interested can sign up for this event in front of the bookstore October 12, 13, and 14.

The club offers new opportunities to students. The club has a number of on campus activities such as co-ed intermural ultimate frisbee and speedball. For more information contact the B.A.I.R.S. office in the back of Kelly Gym.

Timothy Dalton is James Bond in "Liscence Revoked."

Design Bond's new film poster

United Artists Pictures' is sponsoring a James Bond-007 poster competition. Students have the opportunity to have their art work considered as part as the basis for the multi-million dollar advertising campaign for the upcoming movie "Liscence Revoked."

"Liscence Revoked" is the new James Bond film starring Timothy Dalton. Bond becomes embroiled in a personal vengence against Franz Sanchez a Latin American drug dealer played by Robert Davi.

The poster contest will award cash scholarships to the top three winners and show private screenings of "Liscence Revoked," "to the winners' school. All entrants will receive complimentary tickets to see "Liscence Revoked" and the film's official poster.

Judy Schwam, Senior Vice President of Worldwide Publicity and Promotion says, "The James Bond films have always had tremendous influenced on popular culture throughout the world. Fashion, music, and technology have all paid homage to Secret Agent 007 and his women. This competition will help us to keep the adventure and sophistication of the legend on the cutting edge well into the '90's."

The members of the reviewing board for the campaign include the film's producers and executives from United Artists' marketing and creative advertising departments. The selection of the winners will be based on originality, creativity, and appropriateness to the James Bond theme and composition.

Entries must be completed artwork, including copy, and can not be smaller than fifteen inches by twenty inches. Entries can be illustrations, photograph layouts, paintings or drawings in color or black and white. Entries must be postmarked by December 15, 1988 and received by December 31, 1988.

For more information and full contest rules, interested students can write: Spring Greene Marketing Associates; 110 Greene Street; Suite #801; New York City, NY 10012.

Foreign Service Exam for Seniors

If you have ever considered working for the U.S. Department of State, Commerce Dept. or the Information Agency, you need to be aware of the upcoming exam these agencies use in selecting their employees. It is called the Foreign Service Exam and will be given in the Boston area on December 3, 1988. Deadline to apply is October 14, 1988. A booklet describing each agency and the positions it has available plus the application form are available in the Career Planning and Placement Office.

Financial Grant Search Service

A recent congressional study estimates that over $6.6 billion in student scholarships and loans goes unused each year. Why? Principally, because students and parents didn't know these sources exist.

Financial Grant Search Service with home office in Norwell, Mass. is a computerized research and scholarship matching service designed to uncover sources of educational aid. Financial Grant Search provides a computer assisted program which matches students to financial aid sources based on the information submitted by the student. Once these matches are made, the student is supplied with the name and address of whom to contact, the amount of financial assistance awarded, and on what grounds the student is nominally eligible.

Financial Grant Search Services are not only for high school students. Adults wanting to continue their education, housewives and graduate students can benefit from the matching service.

Today, over four billion dollars worth of financial aid information is in the computer. The electronic data banks are constantly updated so the student is assured of complete and up-to-date information.

Christa McAuliffe Teacher Incentive Grant Program

The Department of Academic Affairs in conjunction with the Office of Financial Aid is pleased to announce that applications are now being accepted for the Christa McAuliffe Teacher Incentive Grant Program for 1988-89. This program is sponsored by the Board of Regents and is designed to provide grants of $1,000 to students in Massachusetts colleges and universities who agree to teach in a public educational system in the Commonwealth.

Students who are interested in applying for this grant must be in either their junior or senior year, and enrolled in a full time program of study resulting in eligibility for teacher certification. Interested applicants must also demonstrate financial need as defined by the Financial Aid Office.

Applications are available in the Office of Academic Affairs and the Financial Aid Office for those students who meet the above criteria. The deadline for completed applications is Monday, October 31, 1988.

Any student who is interested in further information before applying should contact the Financial Aid Office as soon as possible.

1988 Computer Bowl Competition

The Computer Museum, Boston, will launch a national Computer Bowl program this October during Computer Learning Month by pitting some of the country's best minds from both East and West Coasts against each other in the world's first Computer Bowl.

A benefit for the Museum's education programs, the event occurs October 7, 1988, at The World Trade Center in Boston, Massachusetts. The award winning PBS television program, Computer Chronicles, will feature this high tech version of the TV classic College Bowl nationwide in two later broadcasts.

The Museum's commitment to the Bowl program highlights the critical national importance of access and outreach programs promoting computer literacy for all. According to a recent nationwide survey by the Educational Testing Service, a majority of this country's young people like computers but know little or nothing about their programs or functions.

The Museum's Bowl program is one way to help respond to these issues and stimulate computer education.

At the October 7th Bowl, longtime tech business rivals will tackle question on everything from computer history, technology, and business to folklore and trivia.

Grants for Graduate Study Abroad

Seniors who have an interest in studying after graduation may wish to know of two possible sources of funding: Fulbright Grants and Rhodes Scholarships.

Rhodes Scholarships are for study at Oxford University only, but Fulbright Grants allow for graduate work in a wide range of countries in Europe, South America, Africa, and the Orient. Both programs require applicants to demonstrate substantial academic achievement, knowledge of a foreign language (where appropriate), and a clear notion of the program of study (or research) to be undertaken. As applications for both grants are due late in October, prospective applicants should begin assembling materials immediately.

Any senior interested in applying should make an appointment to see Dr. Charles Nickerson, Rhodes/ Fulbright Advisor, Honors Center, Harrington 37, for further details and application forms. Telephone 697-2378 or ext. 2347.

Men's Soccer

The Mens Soccer team's winning streak came to a halt this past weekend when they hosted UMass Boston.

UMass scored first, second, and last as Charlie Keskinidis placed all three goals deep in Bridgewater's net.

After losing Mike Meers in the first half to an injury, the Bears were unsuccessful in launching an attack against UMass.

The Bears look to get back in the win column with their next home game, Thursday at 3:30.

Cross Country

Who are the unsung heroes of Bridgewater State College? One needs to look no further than the BSC Cross Country team. With talent exuding from the three top runners, Norman Atchue, Mel Gonsalves and Mike Kearnan, they consistently lead the team to victory.

This past weekend at the Rhode Island Invitational, both Atchue and Gonsalves placed well in the top ten from a group of 170 runners, with the rest of the team making a fine showing as well.

The team's next track meet for both the men and women will be Saturday, October 8 at the Cod-fish Invitational.

Field Hockey

The Field Hockey team battled Pine Manor College for a 4-0 victory on Tuesday.

Scoring the winning goals for the Lady Bears were Kathy McGough with three and Kathleen Carney with one.

The team will be on the road for their next two games.

Women's Soccer

The Women's Soccer team went 1-1 last week after their two games.

Friday the team played against Colby College, losing 1-0. Despite the fact that Bridgewater State lost, they played a very strong game. Bridgewater was always on the ball, taking many shots at the goal. Once again the problem was with finishing.

Bridgewater won Sunday's home game against North Adams State 2-1. In the first half Bridgewater seemed to share the field with North Adams, where as in the second half, they dominated it.

Kerri O'Rourke scored the first goal for Bridgewater. O'Rourke scored the second with an assist from Kara Kennedy.

The team's next home game will be against WPI on Thursday, October 6 at 3:30 in front of the hill.

28-0 victory for Football team

Bears score 4 touchdowns against Fitchburg State

By Paul Courmoyer
Comment staff

All the yelling, screaming, and handclapping in the world wasn't enough to save the Fitchburg State Falcons from our own Bridgewater Bears. The Bears bombed the Falcons off the field 28 to 0, this past Saturday after making adjustments in the first quarter.

The first touchdown came in the second quarter. Lead by Rob Charter, BSC brought the ball down the field. Through a penalty call and getting caught behind the line of scrimmage the Bears seemed to be going in the wrong direction. It was fourth down and BSC was forced to punt, as it would seem. However, Chuck Lindberg, BSC's punter, went into the game and passed to Jeff Lane for a 38 yard touchdown catching the Falcons off guard. BSC increased their lead later in the quarter when Mark Sarkisian ran for another touchdown.

The third quarter was highlighted when Sean Frazier made an interception putting BSC in scoring position again. Charters then drove into the end zone scoring the third touchdown of the day.

By the fourth quarter the Bears were rolling strong and seemed to be unstoppable. After BSC's Mark Goldman blocked the Falcon's punt attempt, Charters passed to the one yard line, although the ball was brought back to the eleven yard line due to a BSC penalty. The Bears pressed on to the three yard line, where Charters scored his second touchdown of the day by slipping through the Falcon's defense.

The Falcons were making desperate attempts to score by throwing long passes. They almost succeeded. Late in the fourth quarter, the Falcon quarterback threw to a receiver, who was wide open, near the one yard line. The receiver, however, dropped the ball. After a Falcon's fumble the ball was recovered by BSC.

With this victory the Bears record is now even at 2-2. Saturday the team will face SMU away. October 15th Framingham State comes to town for the Homecoming game at 1:00.

Waterpolo team in first place; Beats Bates College and ties Colby College

This past weekend the Bridgewater State Water Polo Club upped its record to 3-0-1 to remain in first place in the New England Small College Water Polo Conference.

The team travelled to Bates College in Lewiston Maine to compete against last years top two finishing clubs of the N.E.S.C.W.P.C. Championship Tournament, Bates and Colby.

The first game pitted BSC against Colby, one of the strongest teams in the conference. In what most BSC players consider to be the "worst officiated game of the season", the Bears held their own after continual controversial calls.

Perhaps the most controversial call came when goal-tender Jamie Goodrich was called to sit out a penalty. This left BSC with no experienced goalie in the cage. Consequently a goal was scored.

"I've never heard of such a thing," said a disgruntled Goodrich after the game. "In every other sport, (as well as this one) another player usually sits out for the goalie."

In the end, however, the game was tied 4-4 and both teams agreed on the quality, or lack of quality, of the refereeing. The BSC offense of Scott Goodrich, Matt Gillis, Mark Patterson, and Jamie Goodrich as well the defense of Bob Hoefer, Darryl Aviza, Tom Mahoney, and Karl Hoffman showed no lack of quality.

The second game matched up BSC and Bates, last years tournament winners. Anyone who saw the game knows that they will not repeat. The Bears crushed them. Right from the opening swim-off BSC outswam, outscored, and simply outplayed Bates. The offense was unstoppable scoring twelve goals while the defense was impenetrable, allowing only four goals. Bridgewater showed the crowd that they are the team to beat this year.

Other players who saw action and performed in the BSC tradition were Heather Lambert, Denise Murphy, Kathy Sugrue, Denis Prinderville and Julie Knibbs.

Men's Rugby defeats Framingham 20-4

By Angela Cornacchioli
Comment staff

The Bridgewater State Men's Rugby team ruled their game Saturday as they easily defeated Framingham State College 20-4.

Some quick passing by the Visigoth backs set the pace for Saturday's rugby game.

Co-Captain Chris Murphy and Gary Parziale combined to get the ball down to Framingham territory in the first minutes of the game. Next three scrumdowns at the five meter mark, all won by the Visigoths, set up the opening try scored by Rich Elwell for four points.

Shortly after that a Visigoth line out was successfully caught by BSC and worked along the field vertically by the backs. This put the ball out of bounds for another line out which was also won by BSC. The scrum worked the ball to Chuck Doherty who easily ran into the try zone for another four points.

The ball was continually in Framingham territory as the Visigoth scrum simply overpowered their opponents. Mike Petrillo pressed through next to score a try, downing the ball near the center to set up excellent field position for the conversion kick. Dan Coady successfully executed the kick adding two more points to the Visigoths lead of 14-0.

In the last minutes of the half Marc Mespelli powered by Framingham for another Visigoth try. The conversion kick by Coady was good sending Bridgewater into halftime with a 20-0 lead.

In second half Framingham came alive scoring one try to gain four points. However they were shut down shortly after by the Visigoths, allowing them to score no more.

Late in the game Parziale made a last attempt to score as he sprinted down the open field. After a call by the referee the ball was placed back to the middle of the field stopping the drive.

This year's team is lead by Co-Captains Allen Hebb and Chris Murphy. Members of the team are: Paul Cangiano, Bill Capplis, Dan Coady, Mike Coller, Chuck Doherty, Paul Doyle, Joe Foglietta, David Genest, Craig Hall, Robert Hayes, Ken Hentschel, Bill Hunt, Davis Jensen, F. Scott Longo, George Martin, Kevin McCarthy, Chris Mazeika, Brian Melvin, Marc Mespelli, Chris Murphy, Tony Navarro, Gary Parziale, Mike Petrillo, Dave Powers, Allen Scott, Dan Solari, Jeff Sutherland, Ed Swirbalus, and Mike Zeole.

Saturday the Visigoths nit the road to face Nichols College. Homecoming Saturday the Visigoths will be back home challenging Worcester State.
